The game plan

Two policies, R46,460.96 a month. You can save them R110,612 a year by moving both — and you are not going to, because R42,637.61 of it isn't yours to give away. Lead with the policy you are NOT moving. Nobody has ever done that to this client.

RUN THE MEETING IN THIS ORDER

1. Open by taking something off the table. "I could save you nine grand a month across both policies. I'm only going to recommend one of them, because the other one has forty-two thousand rand of OUTbonus sitting on it and I'm not costing you that to earn a commission."

2. Then the free win. Their surge protection is below what their own policy requires. It costs them an electrician's morning and it removes a 20% penalty excess on R10m of plant. Give it away.

3. Then the fleet. R26,860.75 → R17,704.87. Western beats the King Price quote you showed them in August by another R3,277 a month.

4. Then the three gaps — BI at R3m on R89m turnover, no deterioration of stock anywhere, GIT declared as "agricultural produce". All fixable at OUTsurance, none of it earns us anything today.

5. Close on tracking. Theft cover on both policies is conditional on it, and all nine fleet tracking fields are blank.

THE TRADE YOU ARE REFUSING

57 years

The commercial saving is R741 a year. The OUTbonus is R42,637.61. It would take fifty-seven years of saving to earn the bonus back. Say the number out loud — it does the work for you.

⚠ BEFORE YOU PRESENT

The Western fleet price is NOT firm. The quotation reads "subject to a written 3 years minimum claims experience before going on risk", and this client has R968,238 of fleet claims in 24 months plus R341,015 on the three private cars. Get the rating confirmed in writing first — same gate as August, and it has got heavier now the private-car claims are visible.

💡 THE NUMBER THAT MAKES THE SPLIT OBVIOUS

Take the fleet and you capture R109,871 a year. Take the commercial as well and you add R741 — and hand back R42,637.61. The commercial policy is worth more to them staying put than moving. Say it plainly and you will never be asked whether you are just chasing the sale.

Read-across. The commercial policy is issued to Cs Continental Cc; the Western fleet proposal reads "CS CONTINENTAL MEAT (FLEET)" under the same registration number — confirm the correct legal entity on both. VAT number is blank on OUT and reads "0" on Western. Source-verified against all four documents. E&OE.

DO NOT HAND TO THE CLIENT

The Naked Truth

Six things that can go wrong. The first one is the whole deal; the last one corrects something you were told in August.

1 ► The Western fleet price is not firm, and the claims record is worse than you thought.

"Subject to a written 3 years minimum claims experience before going on risk." Fleet: R968,238 over 24 months. Plus R341,015 of accidental damage on the three private cars between April and December 2024 — that only became visible on the commercial schedule.

DO File the full record with Western now and get the rating confirmed before you quote a rand.

2 ► Third party on the Western fleet quote is not one number.

The schedule shows both R2,500,000 and R5,000,000 across the items. OUTsurance writes R5,000,000. You need to know which vehicles sit where before you compare them.

DO Get it itemised, and price everything up to R5m so it is genuinely like-for-like.

3 ► Electronic equipment is R2,705 a month DEARER at Western.

R3,451.79 to R6,157.42. On a section this size that is not a rating difference, it is probably a different sum insured or a different basis. If the client spots it before you do, the rest of your numbers lose credibility.

DO Reconcile the EE items line by line before the meeting.

4 ► You are recommending they keep a policy with real gaps in it.

BI R3m on R89m turnover. No deterioration of stock. GIT declared as "agricultural produce". PL retro 06 January 2026 on a food business. Keeping the policy is right; pretending it is fine is not.

SAY "I'm telling you to keep it, and I'm telling you it needs four amendments. Those are different things."

5 ► The products liability carve-out is aimed straight at them.

"No cover for defective design, formula, plan or specification where you are responsible for any part of the manufacturing, packaging or preparation prior to sale." They are a butchery. They prepare and package meat. And PL is only R5,300,000, RSA only.

DO Raise it, quote R10m, and get the real retroactive date out of the Old Mutual Insure history.

6 ► Two things in the August pack were wrong. Correct them yourself.

(a) "No OUTbonus, nothing forfeited by leaving" — true of the fleet, false of the commercial, which has R42,637.61 projected. (b) "Both policies are motor-only, no GIT, no machinery breakdown" — the commercial policy carries both. The deterioration point was right.

SAY "When I did the fleet in August I only had half the picture. Now I've got both policies and one thing I told you has changed."

📜 OPEN

"I could move both your policies and save you about nine thousand a month. I'm only recommending one of them — because there's forty-two and a half thousand rand of OUTbonus sitting on the commercial policy and I'm not costing you that to write a bigger deal."

THE OBJECTIONS YOU'LL HIT — AND THE WORDS THAT ANSWER THEM

💬 "You showed me King Price last month. Now it's Western. Which is it?"

✓ Western, and I'll show you why: R17,704 against King Price's R20,981 and your current R26,860. That's another R3,277 a month on top of what I brought you in August. I went back to the market because the fleet was worth going back for.

💬 "If the commercial one saves money too, why not move both?"

✓ Because it saves sixty-one rand a month. Seven hundred and forty-one a year. Your schedule says you've got R42,637.61 of OUTbonus coming on 28 July 2028 and you lose it the day you leave. That's fifty-seven years of saving to earn the bonus back. I'll re-market it in 2028 once the money's in your account.

💬 "What's this about my surge protection?"

✓ Your policy requires a SANS-approved device rated at least 40kA in the main board. Your schedule says what you've got is under 40kA. If lightning or a surge damages anything, you carry the first 20% of the claim. You've got ten million rand of plant and refrigeration and you already had a lightning claim in December 2023. Get an electrician in this week — it costs you a morning.

💬 "So what am I actually not covered for?"

✓ Three things. Your stock spoiling when the refrigeration fails — not covered on either policy. Your business interruption is insured at three million against eighty-nine million of turnover. And your goods in transit is declared as "agricultural produce" when you move chilled meat. None of those earn me anything to fix and all three are worth more to you than the premium.

"Give me the go-ahead on the fleet and I'll have the claims rating confirmed and the tracking surveyed this week. Leave the commercial exactly where it is — I'll come back to it in 2028. And please get that surge device sorted whatever you decide about me."

🔧 THE REFRAME THAT WINS THE ROOM

Every broker in this client's history has arrived wanting the whole account. You are arriving to take half of it and hand the other half back with a list of repairs. That is the single most persuasive thing you can do — and in 2028, when the bonus lands, they will call you rather than the other way round.
