

PREPARED BY

PREPARED FOR

ELIZABETH SCHLEBUSCH

GEAR LAB ROODEPOORT · INTERNAL

RM EYES ONLY
DO NOT HAND TO THE CLIENT

NEW BUSINESS · TWO MARKETS · RM FIELD EDITION

Gear Lab Playbook

No incumbent, no benchmark, no claims history. And two quotes that both switch off the cover this client actually needs.

 HOLLARD

R3,731/mo

QT1026483

 ONE

R2,718/mo

-R1,013 · 27.2%

 BOTH MISSING

Hoists

and work-in-progress

The game plan

This is not a comparison — there is no incumbent. So price is the least interesting thing you can say. Your value here is that you read two quotes and found that neither of them covers a customer's car on a hoist, in a business whose entire day is customers' cars on hoists.

RUN THE MEETING IN THIS ORDER

- 1 Ask them to describe a normal Tuesday. Car comes in, goes on the hoist, gearbox out. Get them saying it. Then show them the two lines that are switched off.
- 2 Then the R50,000. Ask what the most expensive car in their workshop right now is worth, and how many are in at once. The number they give you is the number that should be on the policy.
- 3 Then the entity question. Two quotes, two different registration numbers. You cannot bind either until you know which company trades.
- 4 Then what's missing entirely — business interruption above all. R5.2m of stock at one address and no cover for the income if it burns.
- 5 Price last, and don't recommend yet. ONE is R1,013 cheaper. Say so, and say you are not recommending on price until both markets have quoted the two missing extensions.

THE QUESTION THAT SELLS THE FILE

"What's on the hoist right now?"

Whatever they answer, it is worth more than R50,000 — and neither policy as issued pays for it. That single exchange is the whole meeting.

△ BEFORE YOU PRESENT

Tell both insurers in writing that this client has never been insured. ONE's approval makes inception conditional on a satisfactory claims history AND a previous policy schedule — neither of which can exist. An uninsured risk is rated differently. Get that confirmed now, not after they sign.

Hollard vs ONE, reconciled

Hollard QT1026483 via BrokerBuddy (Commercial) FSP 43153 • ONE ONEC/1293516.1, One Insurance Limited t/a ONE • both printed 24/08/2026 • monthly, VAT and Sasria incl.

SECTION	HOLLARD	ONE	Δ	NOTE
Fire	R1,520.84	R832.50	-688.34	Contents agree: P&M R350k + stock R5.2m = R5,550,000 = ONE's fire SI exactly.
Buildings combined	incl. in fire	R353.16	+353.16	R1,750,000 vs R2,555,000 — R805,000 apart.
Theft — R100,000 both	R583.34	R333.33	-250.01	Same SI, ONE 43% cheaper. Understand why.
Liability — R4,000,000 both	R496.67	R325.00	-171.67	Hollard claims-made ; ONE broadform, basis not stated.
Motor traders	R500.01	R577.50	+77.49	The section that matters. See Play 03.
OfficeBuddy / general	R225.00	R2.08	-222.92	Hollard value-add; ONE general R25,000.
Sasria	R330.65	R294.72	-35.93	Hollard charges M4 motor traders R44.27 ; ONE charges none . Query.
Broker fee	R75.00	—	-75.00	Hollard commission 20% non-motor / 12.5% motor. ONE commission R476.27.
All-in per month	R3,731.48	R2,718.29	-1,013.19	ONE is 27.2% cheaper

TWO QUOTES, TWO DIFFERENT COMPANIES

Hollard: "Gear Lab", reg 2000/260824/07, VAT 9874563 — seven digits; an SA VAT number is ten and starts with 4. That number is not valid.

ONE: "Gear Lab Roodepoort (Pty) Ltd", reg 2025/509941/07, VAT blank, business type "Not Specified".

One company registered in 2000, one in 2025, same address. Bind the wrong entity and there is no cover. And if the trading company really is a 2025 registration, that is a start-up — which explains the absence of insurance and changes the underwriting conversation. Also: ONE's inception and endorsement dates both read 01/01/3000, a system placeholder — there is no start date on that quote.

Customers' vehicles — and the two switches

MOTOR TRADERS	HOLLARD	ONE	VERDICT
Vehicle hoists and ramps	No	Yes	ONE WINS
Damage to vehicles being worked upon	excluded by wording	No	NEITHER
Contingent liability	No	Yes	ONE WINS
Material damage — customers' vehicles	R50,000	R50,000	BOTH TOO LOW
Third-party liability	R2,500,000	R2,500,000	SAME
Theft of parts · loss of keys	—	R10,000 · R20,000	ONE WINS
Excess	to confirm	10% min R3,000	GET HOLLARD'S

HOLLARD, EXCEPTION 14

"The company shall not be liable ... for loss, damage and/or injury occurring by or through the use of any vehicle hoist or vehicle ramp unless otherwise stated in the Schedule." It is not stated — "No" on all four items. Exception 11 also kills "defective workmanship or consequential loss ... to any vehicle in or on the premises", and exception 5 kills "mechanical, electronic or electrical breakdown, failure or breakage." On a gearbox rebuild, that is three of the four ways the job goes wrong.

ONE, INTERNAL RISK

Car hoists Yes — better. But "Damage to vehicles being worked upon: No." And the extension list shows "WorkAway: No" and "WorkAway: Yes" on consecutive lines. The schedule contradicts itself. Get it in writing before anyone signs.

IN THE ROOM

"Walk me through a normal job. Car arrives, goes up on the hoist, box comes out. Right — now look at these two lines. One quote says it won't pay for anything that happens through the hoist. The other says it won't pay for damage to a vehicle you're working on. That's your whole business, on both quotes, switched off."

The Naked Truth

Six things to know before you walk in. Number one means you should not be recommending either quote yet.

1 ► You cannot recommend either quote as it stands.

Both have the hoist/work-in-progress cover off. Recommending one on price and fixing the cover later is how a broker ends up on the wrong side of a claim.

SAY "I'm not going to tell you which one to take today. I'm going to tell you what's missing from both, get it priced, and then recommend."

2 ► The inception conditions are impossible to meet.

ONE wants a satisfactory claims history and a previous policy schedule. The client has never been insured, so neither exists. Underwriters reprice uninsured risks.

DO Put it to both insurers in writing this week and get the price confirmed on a no-prior-cover basis.

3 ► You do not know who the insured is.

Reg 2000/260824/07 on one quote, 2025/509941/07 on the other. And the Holland VAT number is seven digits — it cannot be real.

ASK "Send me your CIPC registration certificate and your VAT certificate. I'm not binding a policy in a name I can't verify."

4 ► ONE is cheaper on theft by 43% for an identical R100,000.

R583.34 against R333.33. On the same sum insured that is a rating or a condition difference, not a bargain. There may be a warranty behind it.

DO Read both theft sections' warranties and security requirements before you lean on the price gap.

5 ► ONE charges no Sasria on the motor traders section.

Holland charges M4 Motor Ferries & Traders at R44.27. ONE charges F2 fire only. Sasria is statutory — an absent category usually means an undeclared exposure.

DO Query it. R44 is nothing; a missing Sasria category at claims stage is not.

6 ► There is no business interruption on either quote.

R5,200,000 of stock, one premises, and a trade where the equipment is as hard to replace as the building. If it burns, the income stops and the salaries do not.

SAY "Nobody quoted this because nobody asked for it. I'd like to price it before you decide, so it's your choice and not an oversight."

The Battlecard

THE SPREAD

R1,013/mo

ONE cheaper · 27.2%

THE GAP

R50,000

on customers' vehicles

THE OPEN

The hoist

off on both quotes

OPEN

"Before we talk money — describe a normal job for me. Car comes in, goes on the hoist, gearbox comes out. Right. Now let me show you two lines, one from each quote."

THE OBJECTIONS YOU'LL HIT — AND THE WORDS THAT ANSWER THEM

💬 "Just give me the cheaper one, I've never had insurance anyway."

✓ I can, and it's ONE at R2,718. But right now neither policy pays if a customer's car comes off your hoist, and both cap damage to customers' vehicles at fifty thousand. I'd rather spend a week getting that right than sell you something that doesn't answer when you need it.

💬 "Fifty thousand sounds like plenty."

✓ What's in your workshop right now? A gearbox rebuild on a modern SUV — that car's worth six, eight hundred thousand on its own, and you've got more than one in at a time. Fifty thousand doesn't replace a door on it. That limit needs to come from your yard, not from a form.

💬 "Why do you need my registration documents?"

✓ Because the two quotes name two different companies with two different registration numbers, and the VAT number on one of them isn't a real VAT number. If we insure the wrong entity, you'd find out at your first claim. Ten minutes of paperwork now.

💬 "What else are you going to try and sell me?"

✓ Nothing today. But you should know what isn't on either quote: if this place burns you've got no cover for the income while you rebuild, nothing on the hoists and presses themselves, and nothing on the diagnostic gear. I'll price them so you can decide — not so I can decide for you.

NIGHT BEFORE • 60 SEC

- ☐ Hollard R3,731.48 · ONE R2,718.29
- ☐ work-in-progress: OFF on both
- ☐ two different reg numbers

- ☐ hoists: Hollard NO, ONE yes
- ☐ R50,000 on customers' cars
- ☐ no prior cover — tell the insurers

CLOSE LIKE THIS

"Four answers from you: which company is trading, what the building would cost to rebuild, the most customers' cars you've got in at once and what they're worth, and any vehicles you own. Give me those and I'll come back with one recommendation and the two extensions priced."

THE REFRAME THAT WINS THE ROOM

This client has gone years without insurance, which means somebody has quoted them before and they said no. The reason to say yes to you is not that you are cheaper — it is that you are the first person who read the wording and told them what it does not do. Lead with the gap, not the price.