Four quotes against your policy

Your cover is with Old Mutual Insure through PWV Insurance Brokers and has been since 2010. We went to four markets. Three came back cheaper. This pack sets out what each one would change, line by line, and the two things we would fix before you sign anything.

What each insurer would charge

Every figure below is the all-in monthly cost: premium, fees, Sasria and VAT together. That is the only number that can honestly be compared, and all five reconcile to the cent against the documents.

INSURER	ARRANGED BY	ALL-IN MONTHLY	AGAINST TODAY
YOUR POLICY: OLD MUTUAL INSURE	PWV INSURANCE BROKERS	R46,640.87	-
Bryte QT1029228	BrokerBuddy Specialised	R41,359.96	-R5,280.91
COM58558	direct
Alpha ALPHACOM204975	FSP Commercial On-Line, Guardrisk	R45,539.16	-R1,101.71
Auto & General	direct	R46,795.48	+R154.61

Over a year: Bryte saves R63,371, King Price R44,870, Alpha R13,221. Auto & General costs R1,855 more than staying where you are.

PRICE IS NOT THE WHOLE ANSWER HERE

Three of these four are cheaper than your current policy, so the question is not who is cheapest. It is what each one changes about your cover, and on a school that transports special-needs children every day, two lines decide it: what answers if a child is hurt on a bus, and what answers if the school is sued. The next two pages deal with exactly those.

READ BEFORE COMPARING THE PRICES

Bryte's quote carries one tenth of your rent cover. Your policy insures rent at R21,677,345. King Price quoted R21,677,345 and Auto & General R21,677,344. Bryte quoted R2,167,734, which is your figure with a zero missing. Part of why Bryte is the cheapest quote is that it is not quoting the same policy. We have asked them to correct and re-rate it.

What answers if a child is hurt on a bus

You run 21 Toyota Quantum Sesfikile minibuses, 15 and 16 seaters, and your current policy records them as MIDI-BUS and rates them for Sasria as Category M3, minibus, 16 passengers including driver. That classification matters, because one of the four quotes has written a different vehicle class into the cover.

ON EACH BUS	PASSENGER LIABILITY	UNAUTHORISED PASSENGER	VERDICT
YOUR POLICY TODAY	R2,500,000	R2,500,000	PLUS CONTINGENT LIABILITY R2,500,000
King Price	R3,000,000 "Private and LDV only"	R3,000,000 "Private and LDV only"	Must be fixed
Bryte	R2,500,000 on 23 of 25 items	R2,500,000	Match
Alpha	R2,500,000 nil excess (R5,000,000 on 3)	R2,500,000 nil excess	Match
Auto & General	R2,500,000 on 21 vehicles	R2,500,000	Match

THE ONE ITEM WE WILL NOT LET PAST

On all 25 of its vehicle items King Price prints "Passenger liability: Private and LDV only, R3,000,000". A Quantum Sesfikile is neither a private car nor a light delivery vehicle. On a plain reading that limit would not respond for your buses, and the larger number printed next to each one makes it look as though it would.

You already have R2,500,000 that plainly does respond. So as written, the quote we otherwise rate most highly would move you from working cover to a bigger number that may not answer. We have gone back to King Price in writing and we will not put a signature in front of you until that restriction is removed or confirmed to cover minibuses used for scholar transport.

WHY WE ARE CONFIDENT IT CAN BE FIXED

Alpha quoted the same 21 buses and gave R2,500,000 of passenger liability with a nil excess, and on three of them R5,000,000. The cover is plainly available on these vehicles. King Price has used a vehicle-class restriction that does not fit the risk, and that is a correction, not a negotiation.

What answers if the school is sued

Your liability cover today is R5,000,000 of broadform public liability plus a R20,000,000 umbrella, so R25,000,000 in total. Three of the four quotes reduce that. One matches it and adds cover you do not have.

LIABILITY	TODAY	KING PRICE	BRYTE	ALPHA	A&G
Public liability limit R5m + R20m umbrella	R25,000,000	R25,000,000	R20,000,000	None quoted	R5,000,000
Pollution liability	R5,000,000	confirm	confirm	no section	confirm
Teacher liability	Not covered	Included	not shown	no section	not shown
Pupil liability, incl. pupil to pupil	Not covered	Included	not shown	no section	not shown
Professional indemnity	Not covered	R1,000,000	not shown	no section	not shown
Property owners' liability	R5,000,000	R2,500,000	R2,500,000	no section	R1,000,000
Employers' liability	Not covered	excluded	absent	no section	not selected

THE FINDING THAT CHANGES THE RECOMMENDATION

Your current policy prints, in the broadform liability extensions, "Schools extension: No" and "Cancellation of special event extension: No".

So the school-specific cover is not something you have and might lose. It is something you have never had. King Price is the only one of the four quoting it, and it writes in, at no separate charge: teacher liability, pupil liability including one child injuring another, R1,000,000 professional indemnity covering wrongful expulsion of a scholar, post-traumatic counselling for a pupil or teacher after a traumatic event, cancellation of a school event, and a food and drink extension for the tuck shop. Its definition of who is insured expressly includes the principal, teachers, student teachers, pupils, governing body trustees and the PTA.

WHICH IS WHY WE ARE NOT RECOMMENDING THE CHEAPEST

Bryte is R1,541.71 a month less than King Price. Bryte's quote records your industry as "Unspecified", and that is why none of the above appears on it. On a school for special-needs children, R1,542 a month is a small price for the section that responds when a child is hurt at school.

THREE GAPS THAT ARE YOURS TODAY, NOT SOMETHING A QUOTE CREATED

Business interruption sits at R297,000 on your policy, and every quote has copied it. For a school of this size that figure deserves its own conversation.

There is no employers' liability, no fidelity cover and no glass on your policy or on any of the four quotes. You have teaching and support staff, you collect fees and you run a tuck shop. We would put fidelity and employers' liability in front of you whichever insurer you end up with.

Your policy requires tracking on the buses. The schedule says none is fitted.

This is the most urgent thing in this pack and it has nothing to do with changing insurer.

WHAT YOUR CURRENT SCHEDULE SAYS, ON EVERY BUS

Gearlock: No · Immobiliser: Factory Fitted · Tracking 1: Early Warning System Required · Drivecam: No · Data Dot: No · Alarm system: None

and under Warranties and Endorsements, on every item:

"Vehicle Recovery System (the Device) Warranty and Memorandum"

WHY THAT WORDING MATTERS

An early warning system is required, and this is written as a warranty, not a recommendation. Your own schedule records no tracking device and no alarm on the buses, only a factory-fitted immobiliser. A breached warranty is the cleanest ground an insurer has to decline a claim. This applies to 24 of your 25 vehicles and it applies today, on the policy you already hold.

AND EVERY QUOTE KEEPS THE REQUIREMENT

Bryte prints "Early warning system required" against 21 of 25 items. King Price requires an immobiliser or tracking on every vehicle, tracking on anything worth R500,000 or more, tested every six months, and adds an extra excess of 25% of the claim where it is not there. Auto & General charges a theft excess of R5,600 or 7.5% of the vehicle value, whichever is higher, and waives it entirely if a tracking device is fitted, which on a R450,000 Quantum is about R33,750 of excess removed.

WHAT WE SUGGEST

Fit the units before any new policy incepts, so you are compliant on day one rather than finding out at a claim. On a fleet carrying special-needs children there is a second reason that has nothing to do with insurance: live vehicle location and driver behaviour reporting is what a parent and a governing body actually want to see. We can quote 24 units alongside whichever policy you choose.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT

- 1 King Price confirms the passenger liability in writing. Nothing is presented as final until it does.
- 2 Bryte corrects the rent item from R2,167,734 to R21,677,345 and re-rates, and fixes two transposed registrations.
- 3 All of them quote the escalation margins to match your 1st and 2nd year cover.
- 4 We price fidelity and employers' liability so you can see what the standing gaps cost to close.
- 5 We bring you a corrected pack and a firm number.
